

A HUMAN STORY BEHIND CYCLING TO WORK

(data taken from Canada Census 2016)

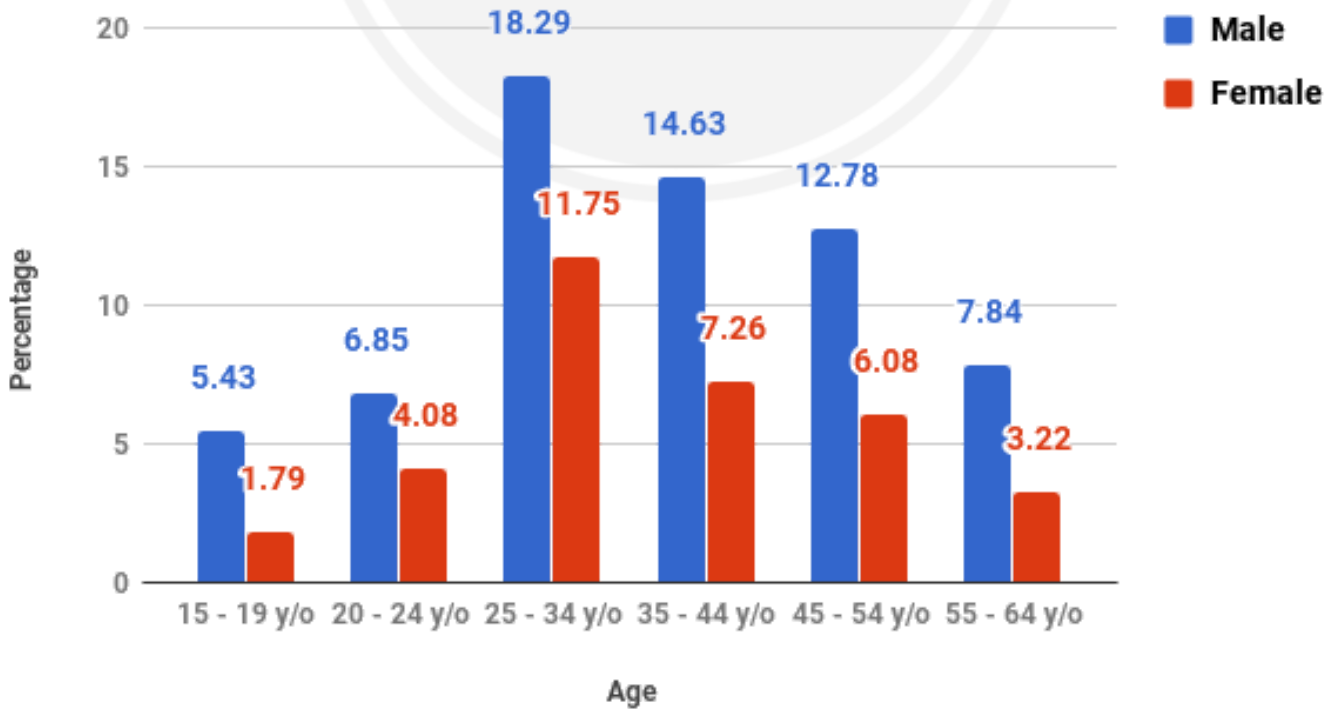

WHO ARE OUR CYCLISTS?

Cycling to work accounts for roughly 1.5% of all modes of transportation Canadians use for their workday commute. However, what are the characteristics and trends of the typical cyclist who commutes to work? Are they young or old, male or female? And, how far do commuters cycle, and who tends to cycle for larger distances?

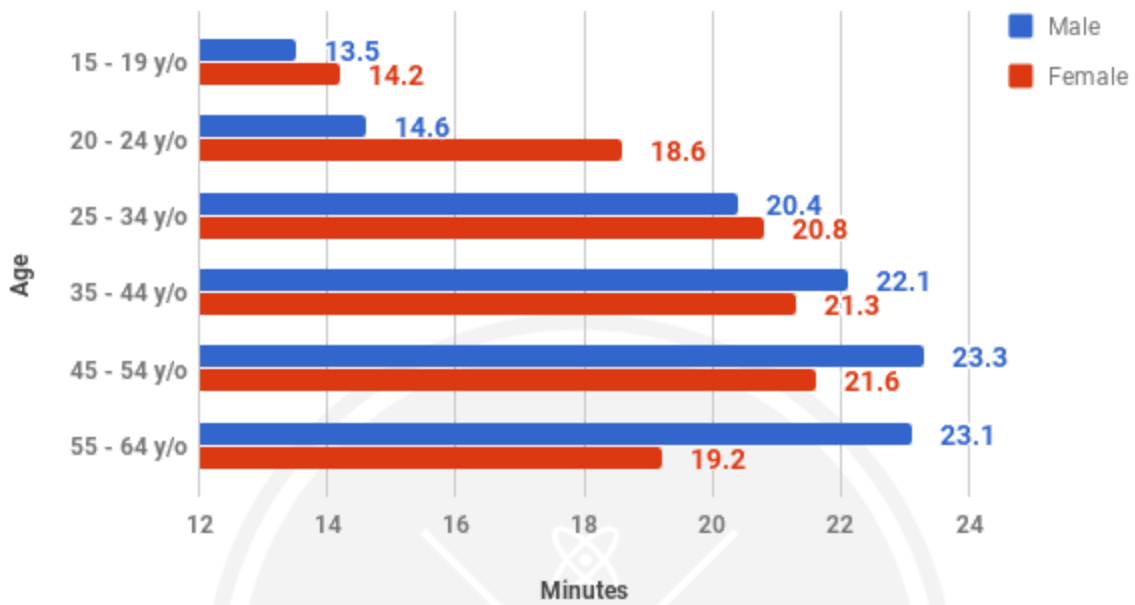

Distribution of Cyclists by Age

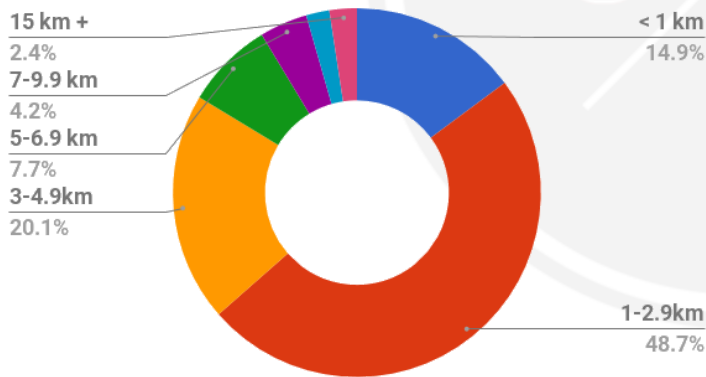

Percentage of Cyclists by Age & Sex

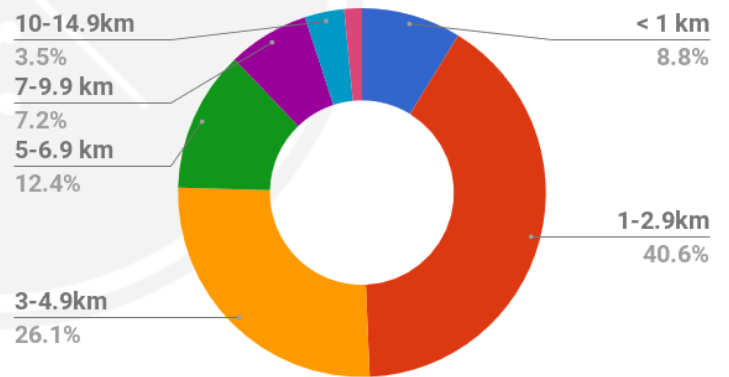

Average Duration of Commute by Age and Sex

Commute Distance for cyclists aged 15 to 24 years old

Commute Distance for Cyclists aged 25 to 44 years old

Commute Distance for Cyclists aged 45 to 64 years old

